NMR Determination of the Structure of Azolopyrimidines Produced from Reaction of Bidentate Electrophiles and Aminoazoles

Huwaida M. E. Hassaneen\textsuperscript{a}, Hamdi M. Hassaneen\textsuperscript{a}, Sherif F. M. Khiry\textsuperscript{a}, and Richard M. Pagni\textsuperscript{b}

\textsuperscript{a} Chemistry Department, Faculty of Science, Cairo University, Giza, A.R. Egypt
\textsuperscript{b} Department of Chemistry, University of Tennessee, Knoxville, TN, USA

Reprint requests to Dr. H. M. E. Hassaneen. E-mail: huwaidah@hotmail.com

A variety of aminoazoles were reacted with bidentate electrophiles producing azolopyrimidines. The regioselectivity of the nucleophilic attack could be defined from the \textsuperscript{13}C chemical shift of the pyrimidine carbons and through NOE experiments.

\textit{Key words:} Aminoazoles, NOE Experiment, Azolopyrimidines, Enaminonitrile